Directed Paraphrasing

In 1 or 2 concise sentences, define what high-quality higher learning—or, if you wish deeper learning—means to you. Write a definition below that will make sense to—and perhaps inspire—your colleagues and your students.

Higher (Deeper) Learning is . . .

Goal Ranking & Matching Exercise

What do you hope to learn through your participation in this Assessment Institute? How can it best address your needs and expectations? This is a Classroom Assessment Technique (CAT) designed to help you identify your goals and expectations and share them with the conference leaders—and each other.

1. On the lines below, please list three or four learning goals you hope to achieve—things you hope to learn or questions you hope to answer—through participating actively in this conference.

List your Learning Goals for this Institute

2. Now, rank your goals in terms of their relative importance to you. Make the most important goal #1, the next most important #2, and so on.
3. Next, working with your group of 3-4 colleagues, determine quickly whether you have any first- or second-ranked goals in common. Determine which one or two key goals are most widely shared.
4. Prepare to report out which goals were shared within your group and to what extent. For example, “Three out of four of us want to learn X.”

Description

Buzz groups give students the opportunity to exchange ideas, opinions, and information in a low stress environment. Because buzz groups can build interest in and enthusiasm for a subject, they are useful in introducing a new topic and in assessing students' prior knowledge or beliefs about that topic. Buzz Groups can also serve as in-class lead ins to out-of-class assignments.

Procedure

1. The instructor prepares a list of open-ended discussion questions that will tap students' ideas, prior knowledge, or opinions about the topic at hand. These should be questions for which there is no one correct answer.
2. In the context of a semi-structured, time-limited conversation, small groups of students discuss their responses to the prepared questions. It may be useful to assign roles such as time keeper, summarizer, and reporter.
3. Groups summarize their responses – including the range of agreement and diversity – and report them to the instructor in writing and/or, if useful, to the entire class, orally. Alternately, in a large class, the instructor can sample responses from a few groups.

6. Take a scholarly approach . . .

Seven Transformative Guidelines for Doing Assessment as if Learning Matters Most

1. Build shared trust. Begin by lowering personal, interpersonal and organizational barriers to risk taking and change.
2. Build shared language and concepts. Develop a collective understanding of the key concepts (mental models) needed for transformation.
3. Build shared goals and motivation. Collectively determine goals worth working toward and problems worth solving – and consider the likely costs and benefits.
4. Design backward and work forward. Design backward from that shared vision and long-term goals to develop coherent outcomes, strategies, and activities.
5. Think and act systematically. Analyze the opportunities and limitations presented by the larger system(s) within which we operate and seek connections and applications to those larger worlds.
6. Take a scholarly approach. Consult relevant valid theory and research. Use what has already been learned about individual and organizational learning, change and assessment to inform, explain, and examine your plans and strategies.
7. Don't assume, ask. Practice what we preach. Make the implicit explicit. Demonstrate the value of assessment by using it ourselves—and on ourselves.

An Example of Grading Standards

Freshman Writing Seminar

Grading Standards for Writing in Seminar Portfolios

- "A" work (1) Responds fully to the assignment; (2) Expresses its purpose clearly and persuasively; (3) Is directed toward and meets the needs of a defined audience; (4) Begins and ends effectively; (5) Provides adequate supporting arguments, evidence, examples, and details; (6) Is well-organized and unified; (7) Uses appropriate, direct language; (8) Correctly acknowledges and documents sources; (9) Is free of errors in grammar, punctuation, word choice, spelling, and format; and, (10) Maintains a level of excellence throughout, and shows originality and creativity in realizing (1) through (7).
- "B" work Realizes (1) through (9) fully and completely -- and demonstrates overall excellence -- but shows little or no originality or creativity.
- "C" work Realizes (1) through (9) adequately -- and demonstrates overall competence -- but contains a few, relatively minor errors or flaws. A "C" paper may show great creativity and originality, but those qualities don't make up for poor or careless writing. A "C" paper usually looks and reads like a next-to-final draft.
- "D" work Fails to realize some elements of (1) through (9) adequately -- and contains several, relatively serious errors or flaws, or many minor ones. A "D" paper often looks and reads like a first or second draft.
- "F" work Fails to realize several elements of (1) through (9) adequately -- and contains many serious errors or flaws, and usually many minor ones, as well. An "F" paper usually looks and reads like a zero draft.

Seven Levers for Deeper Learning

Research-based Guidelines for more Effective Teaching and Learning

Overall, research suggests that virtually all students can learn more – and more deeply – when we help them to . . .

- 1. *Become explicitly aware of their own relevant prior knowledge, beliefs, preconceptions, and values – and unlearn, as needed
- 2. *Set and maintain realistically high and personally meaningful learning goals and expectations for academic success
- 3. *Learn how to learn effectively – given their own individual histories, talents, preferences, and goals – so they become increasingly self-directed and independent learners
- 4. *Understand the criteria, standards, and methods used in assessing and evaluating their learning and get useful, timely feedback on their performance against those standards
- 5. *Seek and find connections to and real-world applications of concepts and skills they are learning in class
- 6. *Collaborate regularly and effectively with other learners and with teachers to achieve meaningful, shared learning goals
- 7. *Invest as much actively engaged time and high-quality effort as possible in their academic work

ANGELO'S SEVEN AXIOMS OF CLASSROOM ASSESSMENT

- 1. Don't ask if you don't want to know.
- 2. Don't collect more data than you can easily and quickly turn into useful information.
- 3. Don't simply adopt methods and techniques from others, adapt them to your subject and students.
- 4. Before using an assessment technique, always ask yourself: How might having data from this help both the students and me improve learning? (If you can't answer that question, the assessment is probably not worth doing.)
- 5. Take advantage of the "Hawthorne Effect."
Let students know why you are assessing and how you hope it will benefit them. You'll be more likely to find what you're looking for.
- 6. Remember: If an assessment is worth doing, it's worth teaching students how to do it well.
- 7. Make sure to close the "feedback loop" by letting students know what you've gleaned from their responses – and how you and they can use that information to improve learning.

Seven Common Misperceptions about Assessment and Seven Reasonable Responses

- 1. We're doing just fine without it.
 - OK, then let's use assessment to find out what works, and to help us document and build on our successes.
- 2. We're already doing it.
 - OK, then let's audit all the assessments we already do to discover what we know and what we don't.
- 3. We're far too busy to do it.
 - OK, but since we're already doing it, let's use assessment to see where and how we can save time and effort.
- 4. The most important things can't/shouldn't be measured.
 - And not everything measurable should be measured, but let's see if we can agree on how we can tell when we're succeeding in these most important things.
- 5. We'd need more staff and lots more money.
 - Since we're unlikely to get more resources: how, what, and where can we piggyback, embed, and substitute?
- 6. They'll use the results against us.
 - They might. So, let's build in strong safeguards against misuse before we agree to assess.
- 7. No one will care about or use what we find.
 - To avoid that, let's agree not to do any assessments without a firm commitment from stakeholders to use the results.

7. Don't assume, ask . . .

Applications Card

DIRECTIONS: Please take a moment to recall the ideas, techniques, and strategies we've discussed -- and those you've thought up -- to this point in the session. Quickly list as many possible applications as you can. Don't censor yourself! These are merely possibilities. You can always evaluate the desirability and/or feasibility of these application ideas later.
